Welcome to “Chaos Theory,” presented by the Young Choreographers Series. YCS is a student-run organization dedicated to fostering an environment that welcomes a variety of styles, encourages creativity, and supports performance as an essential medium of artistic expression.

The title “Chaos Theory” reflects the dynamic nature of our work. It represents how, within the same timeline and with shared resources, eleven student choreographers can craft distinct pieces that span a wide range of styles—from contemporary and hip-hop to jazz, lyrical, and aerial dance.

We are deeply grateful to the UGA Dance Department for their unwavering support, and we would like to extend special thanks to Senior Concert Advisor and Director Barbara Powers, as well as Young Choreographers Advisor Rebecca Gose. Their work has been integral to bringing this performance to life.

We are thrilled to share these unique creations with you, and we hope you enjoy the diverse array of work we’ve prepared!

Music: “Simulaciones” by Imaabs; “Textured Time” by Parallel Worlds

About the Piece: “I live in sin, to kill myself I live; no longer my life my own, but sin’s; my good is given to me by heaven, my evil by myself, by my free will, of which I am deprived.” –Michelangelo

MEET THE CHOREOGRAPHERS

Elizabeth Clark* is a fourth-year student majoring in Dance and minoring in Exercise and Sports Science. Prior to college, she trained at Peacock’s Performing Arts Center in as many dance styles as she could. Since her first year, she has performed with the UGA Dance Company in shows including “Ubuntu,” “Amistad We Stand,” “Mergence,” and the last two Spring Dance Concerts. She danced in works by Jason Aryeh, Lindsay Giedl, Barbara Powers, and Elizabeth

Stich. As a part of past YCS Shows, she has performed student works by Gigi Anderson, Katie Hanna, Emery Martin, Vivian Munce, Sky Poole, Haley Roberson, and Hadiya Williams. This summer, Clark had the opportunity to study away, a second time, in New York City. She took classes, saw Broadway shows, and met with several professional dancers. When Elizabeth isn’t in the studio, she can be found cheering on the Dawgs as part of the Spike Squad. She is beyond excited for everyone to see this year’s show, “Chaos Theory,” as she presents her senior work entitled, “Smile! You’re on Camera!”

Elizabeth Steele* is a fourth-year dance major from Atlanta, GA. Elizabeth began her dance training as a sophomore at St. Pius X Catholic High School under Lisa O’Connor and UGA alum Madison Schrama. Elizabeth has also been training in aerial dance for 4 semesters both at UGA and Canopy Studio. While at UGA, Elizabeth performed in the Black History Month Concert “Ubuntu”(2022), “Amistad We Stand”(2023), and “Saga”(2024). She also performed in the Young Choreographers Series “Endure”(2022), “Transcend”(2023), and Spring Dance Concert 2023 & 2024. Elizabeth also enjoys continuing her training into the summer months, attending the 2023 Pilobolus Summer Workshop and the Dance & Community in Ghana study abroad program with Jason Aryeh last May. Most recently (and for the second year in a row), she attended the American Dance Festival where she participated in the International Choreographers Residency, Student Choreography Showcase, and performed Pilobolus repertory piece “AUTOMATON.” Each of these experiences has contributed greatly to the creative process for her senior thesis project, and she can’t wait to share her work!

MEET THE CHOREOGRAPHERS

Lorelai Crook* is a fourth-year dance major and music minor on oboe from Athens, Georgia. Lorelai has been dancing for 19 years and trained in various styles such as ballet, pointe, contemporary, jazz, hip hop, and step dance. She started dancing at Alice Depass School of Dance and trained there up until her sophomore year of high school. She continued her dance training at Center City Ballet throughout her last two years of highschool where she also participated in the dance and flag line of her school's marching band as the captain. While attending the University of Georgia this will be Lorelai's third time performing in the YCS showcase and her second time showcasing a piece she choreographed for YCS. Lorelai is so grateful and appreciative for the experience she has gained being able to work with her cast to be able to express her creativity through her upbeat, empowering, and rhythmic piece entitled "Aftersome".

Sky Poole* is an emerging contemporary and classically trained dancer earning a B.A. in Dance and minor in Social Work at the University of Georgia. Originally from Augusta, GA, she trained at Colton Ballet School and attended intensives at A&A Ballet, Ballet Institute of Atlanta, Vail Valley Dance Intensive, and Sarasota Ballet. This year, she has thoroughly enjoyed performing a piece by David Dorfman as a part of the Footprints program at American Dance Festival, as well performing contemporary work in Carmel Dance Festival, the Contemporary Dance Choreography Festival, and the Edinburgh Fringe Festival. Currently, she is training with Risk Contemporary Dance Company as a season 3 company member and is so excited to be presenting her senior capstone piece "Force My Hand" in UGA's 2024 Young Choreographers Series. Sky loves a challenge, and she appreciates the mechanism of movement as a means to explore and discuss sensitive and underrepresented topics.

MEET THE CHOREOGRAPHERS

Abby Schulze* is a fourth-year Double Dawg student pursuing her Bachelor of Arts in Dance and Master of Arts in Nonprofit Management and Leadership. Through the UGA Dance Department, she performed in the 2021-2023 Young Choreographers Series Showcases, the 2022-2024 UGADC Spring Concerts, the 2022 Black History Month Show, Ubuntu, the 2023 Black History Month Show, Amistad. She debuted two UGA-affiliated choreographic works, "Crepuscular" and "Control," in the 2022 and 2023 YCS Showcases. In January of 2023, Abby was a part of the ensemble of "Steps in the Street" that opened for the Martha Graham Dance Company in Athens, Georgia. Abby also recently performed and choreographed for the Atlanta Contemporary Dance Company from 2022-2024 and was an instructor in the 2024 Dancing with the Athens Stars event benefiting Project Safe. She is currently a dance educator for The Studio Athens where she works with the Triple Threat Program, Athens Dance Collective, The Studio Competition Team, Adult Dance Companies, and the School of the Arts. Abby looks forward to presenting her work, "Itch to Scratch," and performing in this year's Young Choreographer's Series Showcase.

Jaalah Evans* is a fourth-year Dance and Psychology double major from Lawrenceville, Georgia. She has been dancing for 10 years, developing a diverse repertoire that includes acro, ballet, jazz, contemporary, West African, hip hop, heels, and Caribbean. During her time at UGA, Jaalah has performed at Atlanta Hawks games, performed for Overtime Elite, and toured and studied abroad in Ghana, where she deepened her knowledge of West African dance. Jaalah's work reflects her interest in fusing various styles she's trained in to create a unique expression of movement. Her choreographic piece in this year's YCS showcases this fusion while exploring the complexities of relationships, delving into themes of loneliness, anxiety, perception, and connection. As a dancer and choreographer, Jaalah is passionate about making dance accessible to low-income and marginalized communities, and she plans to one day open a performing arts studio that serves these groups.

MEET THE CHOREOGRAPHERS

Sofia Ferrucci is a third-year dance and psychology major from Madison, Connecticut. Growing up, she danced at Shoreline Ballet and trained in ballet, pointe, modern, contemporary, and jazz. While at UGA, she has danced in Black History Month shows "Amistad We Stand" and "Saga", as well as the UGADC Spring Concert 2023 and 2024, in works by professor Jason Aryeh. She also performed in the 2023 Young Choreographers Showcase, "Transcend". Sofia is so excited to present her work, "Bold" at this year's YCS Showcase!

Calista Honick is a third-year double major in Dance and Marketing. She has been dancing for 15 years and trained at Dance City Productions in Naples, Florida. She started competitive dance at age 10 and competed in the categories of lyrical, contemporary, jazz, musical theatre, and hip hop. While attending the University of Georgia, this will be Calista's second year on the UGA Red Hotz Competitive Dance Team, her first year performing in the YCS showcase, and her first year choreographing for YCS. Calista is so excited to showcase her piece "In the Kitchen" this year!

Katherine Stockton is a third-year dance major and general business and human development & family sciences minor from Smyrna, Georgia. During her time at UGA, she has performed in the 2024 UGADC spring show, as well as the 2024 Black History Month show. This will be her third performance in the UGA YCS show, and the first time showcasing a piece she has choreographed for YCL. This past summer, she attended the Ghana Dance and Community study abroad and performed in local cities across Ghana. This impactful experience has inspired her first piece "Coalesce" and she is so excited to share it with you!

MEET THE CHOREOGRAPHERS

Megan Fitzgerald is a second-year double major in dance and environmental engineering from Dunwoody, GA. She began dancing at age three and joined the company at the Atlanta Jazz Theater at nine where she competed and trained in many styles. As a first year, she performed in the 2023 YCS production and the Black History Month show, dancing in a piece by Jason Aryeh. She now teaches jazz, ballet, and tap at the Studio Athens and choreographs for the company at the Atlanta Jazz Theater. Megan has been choreographing for five years and is excited to make her UGA choreographic debut with her piece "Chiaroscuro".

Ava Grau is a second-year dance and marketing double major from Dunwoody, GA. She was trained at Dan and Company Studios from ages 5 to 18 in ballet, jazz, contemporary, hip hop, tap, and musical theater. Ava began teaching and choreographing in high school and is currently teaching at The Studio Athens. During her first year at UGA, she performed in "Transcend" and "SAGA". Ava is so excited for you to see her piece in this year's YCS!
